Ray Brady Joins NOVA Pressroom Products as Vice President of Technical Services

NOVA Pressroom Products LLC announces the appointment of Mr. H. Ray Brady as Vice President of Technical Services. Mr. Brady joins this technology-based manufacturer of Blanket and Roller Washes, which was formed in February 2007.

Ronald J. Rose, President of Nova stated, "We are extremely fortunate to have Ray Brady as part of the NOVA Technical Team." Mr. Brady brings 23 years of experience formulating advanced solvents products with Anchor, division of FUJIFILM Hunt Chemical USA, Orange Park, FL, where he most recently served as Technical Director, Solvents.

Ray Brady is highly regarded throughout the industry as one of the most knowledgeable designers of safer, high-performing press washes that meet the increasingly stringent environmental regulations imposed in many U.S. states.

"Ray Brady is a unique individual in today's printing industry, combining an advanced chemistry degree from the University of Florida along with years of practical experience working alongside hundreds of printers across the country. He is responsible for formulating most of the 'approved' washes for the major manufacturers of automatic blanket wash equipment."

Independently owned and operated, NOVA has gathered together an industry-leading technical team with over 50 years of formulating, problem-solving and regulatory experience.

NOVA specializes in formulating low VOC and high flashpoint products. The N-300 High Flash Series of products meets high safety and regulatory standards with flash point greater than 142°F. This series is ideal for large sheetfed and web presses. N-400 Low VOC Series products maintain 30% VOC by EPA Method 24 for automatic blanket and roller wash systems such as Baldwin, Oxy-Dry, Goss and Elettra.

“NOVA gives you the advanced products you’d expect from a big box vendor, but the fast response, positive service and affordability you expect from a smaller company,” stated Mr.
